Solid prospect but fully priced in

On 20 Mar, Genscript Biotech's FY16 core net profit of USD28m beat ours at USD24m. Without forex gain of USD6m, net profit could have been USD22m, climbed 62% y-o-y. We see its FY17 outlook remains solid on its brighter research services and enzyme sales. Downgrade to Neutral but higher TP at HKD4.95 (1.5x PEG from 1.0x), on bigger sales and wider margins in FY17F-18F.

Result miss on exchange gain and opex to sales.

Genscript reported its FY16 net profit at USD27m, 51% y-o-y jumped. Excluding the foreign exchange gain of USD6m, its net profit could have been USD22m versus ours of USD24m, climbed 62% y-o-y. Total revenue of USD115m (+19% y-o-y) came in-line with our estimate, thanks to steady rise in life science research services sales. This was helped by (1) bigger service orders as well as upgraded on-line ordering system; (2) improved production and tech platform; and (3) larger demand of DNA synthesis. Operating expenses (Opex) to sales of 44.7% in FY16 were higher than ours 39.8% on bigger sales team with more remuneration.

Brighter research services and enzyme sales outlook.

After an update from the management, and in light of steady orders from gene synthesis and more orders from polypeptide/ protein preparation, we edge up our life science research service sales in FY17F-18F to grow at 20% y-o-y each (old: 18%-19%). Moreover, 2H16's industrial enzyme sales of USD6m, in-line with ours, had 50% derived from Jinan Noroon. On better enzyme synthesis ramp-up in 2017, we raise our enzyme sales forecast by 24%/26% to USD17m/25m in FY17F-18F.

Lifting FY17F-18F earnings by 14%/10%.

Albeit of lifting our opex to sales ratio to 41.0%/ 40.5% in FY17F-18F (from 39.5% and 39.8%), we lift our FY17-18F net profit by 14% and 10% on higher revenue and wider gross margin. Our EPS CAGR (FY16-19F) now points to 22.2%, a bit behind 23.7% previously, on higher opex to sales. We see the reason of termination of strategic partnership with China Resources Group to be: (1) innovative work unmatch; (2) big R&D risk; and (3) project progressing too long. Higher inventories days at 30 versus 23 days in 2015 were due to (1) switching of services biz into product making approach; and (2) bigger Nornoon's inventories post acquisition.

Downgrade to Neutral but higher TP at HKD4.95.

Our new TP of HKD4.95 (from HKD4.70) is based on already high 1.5x PEG (from 1.0x). Our EPS CAGR (FY16-19F) at 22.2% (from FY15-18F: 41.3%) leads to our target FY17 P/E at 33.0x (20.7x EV/EBITDA). With our new TP offering 7% upside, we downgrade the stock to Neutral from BUY, and that its profit growth has fully priced in. Our R&D valuation on its anti-cancer antigen therapy, not included in our TP, stands at HKD1.71/s, 35% of its current valuation.

FY16 Result review

Result miss on exchange gain and opex to sales

Result miss after taking out exchange gain, and partly due to higher opex to sales

Genscript Biotech reported its FY16 net profit at USD27m, 51% y-o-y jump. Underlying earnings came in at USD28m, climbed 67% y-o-y, beat our estimate of USD24m. Excluding the foreign exchange gain of USD6m, its net profit could have been USD22m (+62% y-o-y), missed on higher opex to sales.

Total revenue of USD115m, up 19% y-o-y, was in-line with our estimate, thanks to steady rise in sales for life science research services sales, making up 79.5% of total FY16 total (FY15:88.7%). This was because of (1) bigger service orders as well as upgraded on-line ordering system; (2) improved production and tech platform; and (3) larger demand of DNA synthesis. Note that, pre-clinical drug development drug sales of USD11m beat our estimate by 17%, on (1) bigger demand for antibody engineering and related assay from drug-makers and biotechs; (2) reduced service delivery cycle or timing for antibody modification; and (3) more specific antibody design tailor-made to customers. Further, also thanks to the successful integration and consolidation of Jinan Nornoon in Jun 2016. Moreover, 2H16's industrial enzyme sales of USD6m, in-line with ours, had 50% sales derived from Jinan Noroon

Gross margin of 66.4% beat ours of 65.5% (FY15:65.8%) on smaller production cost in particular to improved platform and product delivery cycle. This was supported by wider segment margin from life science research services of 69.3%, compared to FY15 at 67.0%.

Due to bigger (1) sales person compensation package and sales team; and (2) R&D cost, its SG&A to sales ratio at 44.7% were higher than our estimated 39.8% (FY15: 53.3%; 1H16: 40.6%). Receivable days reduced to 59 days in 2016, compared to 61 days, while inventories day edged up to 30 days in 2016 (FY15: 23). Higher inventories days at 30 versus 23 days in 2015 were due to (1) switching of services biz into product making approach; and (2) bigger Nornoon's inventories post acquisition.

The company declared to pay an annual dividend of HKD1.22 (FY15: Nil), implying a dividend payout ratio at 9.9% in FY16.
