Ground-breaking Fatboy Slim concert takes place in ENGAGE Link

ENGAGE XR Holdings Plc (AIM: EXR; Euronext Growth: EXR), a leading metaverse technology company, hosted an epic Virtual Reality (VR) concert titled "Eat Sleep VR Repeat" in the metaverse starring Norman Cook, AKA Fatboy Slim. The 45-minute concert took place in ENGAGE Link, the Group's professionally focused metaverse platform.

In his first completely virtual concert Fatboy Slim performed some of greatest hits, mixing music, stunning visual effects and animations. The concert has received rave reviews including in The Times and Daily Telegraph. Those who were unable to attend the event can view video and photo highlights here - https://engagevr.io/fatboy_slim_concert/. The full concert video will also be available at a later date.

The concert was the first in ENGAGE Link, which is divided into locations called Plazas, including Entertainment Plaza, Education Plaza, Creative Plaza and Central Plaza. The plazas offer access to the metaworlds of pioneering enterprise, educational and creative entities.

David Whelan, CEO, ENGAGE XR said: "While there have been music performances in the metaverse before, the Fatboy Slim concert took things to the next level with many different areas to explore, visuals and audio that enhanced attendees' senses making the event an almost hypnotic experience. The Fatboy Slim concert demonstrates the versatility and capabilities of VR and how corporations to creatives can build their own worlds within ENGAGE to be used for entertainment, business engagements and so much more. It also shows that VR concerts can be hugely successful, and in the future opens up a new revenue stream for us."
