Galliford Try, the UK construction group, announces that its Environment business has been appointed to two lots on the new Wessex Water Capital Delivery Framework, part of the AMP8 delivery period.

The framework is valued at £3.7bn in total and is expected to be worth in excess of £400m to Galliford Try over its initial six-year period. The announcement follows Galliford Try's recent appointment to the Southern Water Capital Programme Strategic Delivery Partner Framework worth approximately £500m to the business.

Bill Hocking, Chief Executive of Galliford Try, commented: "We are delighted to be working with our partners at Wessex Water to assist them in delivering their plans for AMP8. The significant increase in activity anticipated in the water sector is a key part of our Sustainable Growth Strategy, and we look forward to delivering for Wessex Water's customers and stakeholders."
