RTW Biotech Opportunities Ltd

RTW CIO increases position to 15%

RTW Biotech Opportunities Ltd (the "Company", "RTW Bio"), a London Stock Exchange-listed investment company focused on identifying transformative assets with high growth potential across the life sciences sector, is pleased to note the purchase by the CIO of its Investment Manager, Rod Wong, of additional shares bringing his total shareholding to 15.00%. Over the last year, he has acquired 20,663,008 shares in the market following the completion of the Arix transaction.

Roderick Wong, Managing Partner and CIO at RTW Investments, LP, the Investment Manager commented: "I believe that now is a once-in-cycle opportunity to make private and public investments in biotech, so I am excited to increase my personal holdings in the Company. The listed investment company structure is ideal for private to public healthcare investing, exemplified by the opportunity we currently see in next-generation obesity therapies. With our investments in Corxel and Kailera, we believe that RTW Bio is uniquely positioned among listed investment companies to benefit from continued innovation in the area. Metsera's recent successful IPO points to the strong interest for promising new obesity products."

William Simpson, Chair of the Board of the Company commented: "We are delighted that our Investment Manager's CIO, Rod Wong, has continued to personally buy shares in the open market. This further emphasises RTW Investments' commitment to and alignment with the Company and underscores their strong belief that the Company's shares are undervalued."
