Mobilegaming.com relaunch

Mobile Streams Plc, the Company, is delighted to announce it has relaunched its domain Mobilegaming.com. It has been transformed into a next-generation gaming platform unlocking the power of both mobile and desktop gaming. As part of the Company's bold new branding and positioning, it is entering the market with a strong focus on casual gaming, making it easier than ever for players of all levels to jump in and enjoy a seamless, fun, and rewarding experience.

In this first phase, we are introducing a diverse selection of high-quality, immersive casual games designed to engage a broad audience across 150 countries, from everyday players to gaming enthusiasts. Built for smooth performance and captivating gameplay, our games deliver an experience that keeps players coming back. But this is just the beginning. As we move into the next phase later in the year, mobilegaming.com will expand into the casino gaming space, offering an unparalleled portfolio of over 6,000 live games, including pay to play games and Igames.

At the core of our platform is a deep commitment to security, fairness, and responsible gaming. With advanced security protocols, strict regulatory compliance, and player protection measures in place, we ensure a safe and secure environment where everyone can enjoy gaming with confidence.

Beyond gaming, mobilegaming.com presents exciting new opportunities for brands and advertisers to connect with an engaged global audience through innovative ad formats and sponsorships. As we continue to grow, we are also preparing to introduce more premium sports-themed games, including exclusive titles featuring football, basketball, and baseball, offering fans a new way to experience their favourite sports.

This launch is a key milestone in the Company's wider strategy to engage the global gaming community, strengthening our growing network of gamers and sports enthusiasts. By leveraging cutting-edge technology, dynamic cross-platform gameplay, and a fresh new brand identity, we are setting the stage for mobilegaming.com to become a leading force in the gaming world.

The re-launch of the domain has started, and we can't wait for players worldwide to experience what's ahead. Whether on mobile or desktop, the future of gaming is here-safe, immersive, and built for the modern player.

Mark Epstein CEO of Mobile Streams said:

"We are delighted to announce the re-launch of mobilegaming.com, we feel the domain has enormous potential. We have now begun to unlock and exploit this potential."
