Burford Capital Limited
Additional Definitive Proxy Soliciting Materials

The following information is being shared by Burford Capital Limited ("Burford", "we", "us" or "our") with holders of its ordinary shares beginning on April [28], 2025 in response to a recommendation by Institutional Shareholder Services ("ISS") in connection with the proposals included in Burford's definitive proxy statement (the "2025 Proxy Statement"), which was filed with the US Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC") on April 3, 2025 and is available at <https://www.sec.gov/Archives/edgar/data/1714174/000171417425000070/0001714174-25-000070-index.htm>.

ISS has recommended that shareholders vote against the re-election of two directors, namely Christopher Halmy (the Vice Chair and putative Chair in 2027) and Robert Gillespie. ISS' recommendation is based on a misunderstanding of facts that have been clearly explained previously to shareholders and also, in the case of Mr Halmy, a factual error about the date on which he joined Burford's board of directors (the "Board of Directors").

Notably, Glass Lewis does not concur with ISS' recommendation and has supported both directors' re-election to the Board of Directors.

We ask shareholders to disregard ISS' recommendation and re-elect Messrs Halmy and Gillespie to the Board of Directors.

ISS' entire analysis is as follows:

The company has had ineffective internal control over financial reporting since FY2021. This issue poses serious risks to shareholders and indicates that the audit committee has failed to provide sufficient oversight over the financial reporting process at the company over the past year. As such, support is not warranted to Audit Committee members Robert Gillespie and Christopher (Chris) Halmy.

What ISS appears to have done is to conflate two entirely different matters: (i) the modifications to Burford's valuation approach (which caused valuations to increase) that were driven by engagement with the SEC as extensively reported to shareholders and affected Burford's consolidated financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2020, 2021 and 2022; and (ii) the current reported material weakness in financial controls relating to a lack of available evidence to demonstrate the precision of management's review of the process to determine certain assumptions used in the measurement of the fair value of capital provision assets, which material weakness did not result in misstatements to our consolidated financial statements. Those matters are unrelated to each other and certainly do not provide any basis-even under ISS' own guidelines-for terminating two valuable and experienced directors. (Moreover, Mr Halmy was not even on the Board of Directors in 2021.) Glass Lewis agrees, having recommended a vote in favor of re-election of both Messrs Halmy and Gillespie to the Board of Directors.

As evident from their bios contained in the 2025 Proxy Statement, both Messrs Halmy and Gillespie are extremely qualified to serve as members of the Board of Directors and on the audit committee of the Board of Directors (the "Audit Committee"), with each having contributed significantly to the success of Burford. Mr. Gillespie helped to oversee Burford's listing on the New York Stock Exchange in 2020, with Burford having been the first publicly-traded legal finance company in the US, and the transition from reporting under the International Financial Reporting Standards to reporting under generally accepted accounting principles in the United States, which has been proven successful with over 80% of trading volume now occurring in the United States. Together, Messrs Halmy and Gillespie oversaw the engagement with the SEC that led to the successful modification of Burford's valuation framework and we believe solidified Burford's position as a leader across the legal finance industry. In addition, Messrs Halmy and Gillespie have guided Burford through the successful transition from "foreign private issuer" to a US domestic public company with the filing of Burford's first Annual Report on Form 10-K this March 2025.

We also ask shareholders to vote in favor of our executive compensation.

While we are addressing ISS' recommendations, we would also note that ISS has recommended a vote against executive compensation because ISS dislikes the use of carried interest allocations, just as ISS regularly recommends against compensation at other alternatives firms including Ares, TPG, Carlyle and Apollo on the same basis. We think this position is misguided and we believe—as do the world's largest and most successful alternative managers—that carried interest allocations align the interests of management and shareholders, in that management is only paid carried interest allocations when investments produce profitable cash flow without regard to any fair value or accounting movements. We encourage shareholders to vote in favor of our executive compensation, which is consistent with our approach to compensation for many years, has been fully described to shareholders and is commensurate with our cash performance.
