AdvancedAdvT Limited

Acquisition of MatchingCore IP

AdvancedAdvT Limited (AIM: ADVT, "AdvT", "the Group"), the international software solutions provider for the business solutions, healthcare compliance, and human capital management sectors is pleased to announce the acquisition of the MatchingCore intellectual property for professional services, a leading AI-driven resource optimisation technology.

This strategic move will accelerate the development of advanced AI functionality within our Retain platform and expand our total addressable market and applicability in professional services. MatchingCore's SaaS solution leverages holistic AI optimisation to deliver superior workforce scheduling, improving resource allocation through enhancing utilisation, improving revenues and reducing costs. With the integration of this capability, our workforce management assets will provide clients with an advanced solution for scenario planning and supporting informed, data-driven decision-making on a large scale.

Note to Editors

AdvancedAdvT Limited (AdvT) provides software solutions and platforms across two business transformational areas: business solutions & healthcare compliance, and human capital management.

The Group's operations are IBSS (financial management software), CHKS (AI based healthcare intelligence compliance and accreditation software), Retain (global resource planning and talent management software) and WFM (workforce management software provider).

AdvT is an agent for change. The Group enables the delivery of Artificial Intelligence ("AI"), data analytics and business intelligence, all of which are key future drivers for growth in these sectors where long term digitisation trends are set to transform the workplace for professionals.

AdvT is developing both organically and through acquisitions, by expanding its presence across adjacent markets, geographical boundaries and digital sectors.
