Ryan Mee, CEO of Fulcrum, commented:

"We are pleased with the progress Loyalist is making at Tully, a project with significant expansion and near-term production potential which is being recognised in Canada."

"This transaction has enabled Fulcrum to attain value through its shareholding in Loyalist with an exposure to a wider portfolio of highly prospective Timmins projects and a direct royalty interest in Tully."

"Importantly it allows Fulcrum to focus its resources on executing our strategy as a technology-led company focused on the recovery of precious and critical metals from historic mine waste tailings in Kirkland Lake. I look forward to updating shareholders in due course."

Background information

On completion of the sale of the Tully Gold Project in October 2025 Fulcrum was issued with 78,700,000 common shares of Loyalist (the "Initial Consideration Shares"), cash consideration of CAD 500,000, and a 2.0% net smelter return royalty on the Tully Gold Project with further consideration due based upon certain milestones.

The remaining further consideration due to Fulcrum under the agreement is as follows: -

- (i) Up to an aggregate of CAD 150,000 in cash based on certain milestones;
- (ii) An additional 15,000,000 Loyalist Shares (or cash in lieu thereof) upon filing of a technical report on the Tully Gold Project where a gold resource is re-evaluated (or restated) to a NI 43-101 standard exceeding 200,000 ounces; and

- (iii) An additional 15,000,000 Loyalist Shares (or cash in lieu thereof) upon the announcement of a decision to mine on the Tully Gold Project.

Notwithstanding the above potential considerations, no additional Loyalist Shares will be issued to Fulcrum if the issuance would result in Fulcrum beneficially, directly or indirectly owning, controlling or exercising direction over 20% or more of the voting rights of Loyalist, unless Loyalist has first obtained the requisite regulatory approvals, including shareholder approval for the approval of a new control person and approval of the Canadian Securities Exchange.

The 78,972,740 common shares in Loyalist held by Fulcrum are subject to a hold period expiring 23<sup>d</sup> February 2026.
