TPXimpact announces £22 million NHS England contract award supporting national vaccination programme

TPXimpact Holdings PLC (AIM: TPX), a leading technology-enabled services company focused on people-powered digital transformation, is pleased to announce that, following a competitive tender process under the Digital Outcomes 6 (DOS6) framework, it has been notified that it has been selected as the successful bidder for a £22 million, 2-year digital transformation award with NHS England.

The award forms part of NHS England's Digital Prevention Services Portfolio, a nationally significant programme established to design, build and operate digital and data services that support the prevention of ill health and early intervention.

Under the award, TPXimpact will deliver services across Maternity, Neonatal and School-Age Vaccinations, supporting three end-to-end vaccination pathways across multiple care settings, including GP practices, schools and community environments.

The Company's work will primarily support healthcare professionals responsible for administering, recording and managing vaccinations through digital systems, including GPs, nurses, midwives, pharmacists, School Aged Immunisation Service teams and other clinical and operational staff. The programme will also support a broader group of stakeholders, including members of the public, including people who are pregnant or have recently given birth.

Bjørn Conway, Chief Executive Officer of TPXimpact, commented:

"This new award with NHS England is strategically important for TPXimpact and places us at the heart of delivering nationally critical public services. It reflects the trust placed in us to operate at scale on complex government programmes and demonstrates the progress we have made following the successful execution of our turnaround plan. As we now focus on growth and acceleration, this win is a clear endorsement of our capability, our people and our role in delivering digital services that have a lasting, positive impact on society."
