About SkinBioTherapeutics plc

SkinBioTherapeutics is a life sciences company focused on skin health. The Group's proprietary platform technology, SkinBiotix®, is based upon discoveries made by the translational dermatology team at the University of Manchester.

The Company's strategic approach to skin health is via two routes - tackling skin issues from the 'outside in' and the 'inside out'. The 'outside in' approach is represented by topical creams, and from the 'inside out', via oral supplement solutions which impact the skin via different axes such as the gut and the brain.

SkinBio's products and services are developed through evidence-based science and commercially focused innovation with the aim of supporting skin health, well-being, repair and beauty. SkinBio also has a contract manufacturing and distribution arm related to skin health and other healthcare products.

The Company listed on AIM in April 2017 and is based in Newcastle, UK. For more information, visit: www.SkinBioTherapeutics.com.
