1Q25 net profit surged 23% YoY, holding up better-than-feared

SANYI's net profit grew 23% YoY in 1Q25 to RMB635mn, delivering a set of better-than-feared results which marks the first quarterly profit growth (YoY) since 3Q23. The earnings growth in 1Q25 was driven by large port machinery, oil & gas equipment, overseas mining trucks and other emerging business. We believe that the results will ease concerns over SANYI's growth story. We are staying positive on the company as we expect sustainable overseas growth and gradual stabilization of domestic coal mining equipment. We have left our earnings forecast unchanged, and maintain our TP of HK$8.2 (11x 2025E P/E, the average P/E since 2017). We view the current valuation of 8x 2025E P/E as attractive amid earnings recovery. Maintain BUY.

■ Key highlights in 1Q25 results. Revenue grew 15% YoY to RMB5.9bn. Gross margin slightly narrowed 0.6ppts YoY to 24.3%, which we think was due to product mix factor. Net profit grew 23% YoY to RMB635mn, driven by cost control and operating leverage.

■ Post-results investor call at 10:30 a.m. today (HKT). SANYI will host a conference call today (30 May). We expect management to share more details about the backlog, overseas strategy and new business development.
